Multilevel Governance - Gary Marks

Multi-level governance is defined as the vertical (multiple levels) and horizontal (multiple actors) dispersion of central government authority (Bache/Flinders 2004) and refers to both, political structures and decision making processes (Schäfer 2010). While governance refers to the “growing interdependence between governments and non-governmental actors at various territorial levels” (Bache/Flinders 2004, 3) the concept of multi-level governance adds the dimension of scale.

Despite the different concerns of different authors, four common strands emerge that provide a parsimonious definition of multi-level governance that raises clear hypotheses for future research. First, that decision-making at various territorial levels is characterized by the increased participation of non-state actors.

Multi-level Governance - Oxford Scholarship

Multi-level (or multilevel) governance is an approach in political science and public administration theory that originated from studies on European integration. The concept of multi-level governance was developed in the early 1990s. The theory resulted from the study of the new structures that were put in place by the EU (Maastricht Treaty) in 1992.

Abstract. The expansion of European foreign and security policy co-operation since the 1970s imposes unique requirements on European Union (EU) member states, and the co- ordination of these various obligations presents a major challenge to the EU's pursuit of a common foreign and security policy (CFSP). However, the past decade has also seen significant progress toward the multi-level governance of EU foreign policy, particularly when compared to the limited policy co-ordination of the ...
